

Congress Team Member 2014

Giovanni Sergi

Unfortunately Abdelwehab Alwehab did not get a visa to come to the congress. Giovanni Sergi took over from Abdelwehab.

Until 2011 Giovanni was adjunct professor and university researcher in Urban Planning at the University Politecnica delle Marche, Ancona. Currently he is working as freelance architect and contract professor of Urban Planning at the Department of Architectural Science at the Scuola Politecnica, Genova and at the Faculty of Engineering, Ancona.

He graduated in 1970 from the Faculty of Architecture in Florence.

Overall up to now he has been assigned 45 courses in the area of Urban Planning (courses or laboratory courses) at the University of Ancona, Milan and Genova. From 2002 to 2004 he held three courses as Head of research and one of the lecturers in Tirana. These three courses for graduates focused on “Tools for improving urban quality in Albania” co-funded by the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs. In 2010 and 2011 he held a course in Tirana on Regional and Spatial Planning at the Universiteti Polis.

Giovanni was Visiting Scholar in Philadelphia at the University of Pennsylvania in 1995, at the Columbia University in New York, at the New York University in 1997.

Giovanni has more than 100 publications in the specific area of Urban planning: books, essays, articles on specialised magazines.
