Child-friendly Planning

Since 2018, ISOCARP has cooperated with UNICEF to promote the process of child-friendly urbanization, aiming at drawing attention to the needs of children in urban planning and enabling children worldwide to have a healthy, safe, inclusive and green life in vibrant, fair and friendly cities. These efforts also help to complete the agenda proposed by the UNDP Programme: ‘Transforming our world: The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development’. Child-friendly cities not only can effectively improve children’s quality of life in cities, support the most disadvantaged children in having access to basic services and a safe, clean environment, but they also attract all generations. In this perspective, promoting a child-responsive Ningbo definitively means promoting an innovative and inclusive city for all.

With its unique theme and setting in Mindong Community, and by a team from 6 to 60 where innocence and experience meets - the YPP workshop introduced an important first step to inspire urbanism for children and shape knowledge for children.

A laboratory and at the same time a competing ground towards a challenging path of inspiring a child-friendly Mindong Community.

And a narrative that was built upon 3 questions integrating sustainable urban development and child’s rights: How is the city perceived and lived by the youngest generation? How to envision Mindong as a child friendly community? How to take action?

The result is diverse explorations on the idea of “Children's Home”:

From a vision of “CREATING PLACES PEOPLE LOVE A PLACE FOR ALL” where CHILDREN’S HOME IS MINGDONG COMMUNITY. To the RIBBONS OF MINGDONG, and reminds us that Play is not limited to a playground. Play is everywhere! From An offer to AN URBAN HOME - Inviting us to their living rooms full of love, lots of fun, plenty of participation. To the (A)MAZED - which takes us to A TIME TRAVEL FROM MAZED TO AMAZED where MINDONG AN AMAZING PLACE.

Planning Beyond Limits - Building Livable Communities

Urban development in Indonesia is challenged to fulfill the needs of the people to increase their capacity to compete globally while at the same time maintain sustainability of the cities. Almost 40% of Indonesian citizens are dissatisfied with the living quality of the cities in which they live, according to the recently released 2017 Indonesia Most Livable City Index by the IAP. Within this intense urban agenda, the Workshop will explore alternative futures and strategies for livable communities, and use Jakarta and Bogor as urban laboratories beyond of metropolises and limitless cities:

What is the global role of megacities? Can cities without limits be planned? What are the strategies to promote livability, well-being, exemplary sustainability, innovation and responsive governance?

The workshop is a call to explore alternative futures and strategies for livable communities, and use Jakarta and Bogor as urban laboratories beyond of metropolises and limitless cities - in a medium that is challenged to fulfill the needs of the citizens to increase their capacity to compete globally while at the same time maintain sustainability of the cities. And where almost 40% of Indonesian citizens are dissatisfied with the living quality of the cities in which they live, according to the recently released 2017 Indonesia Most Livable City Index by the IAP.

As part of the world congress, we have 3 questions: What is or should be the global role of megacities? Can cities without limits be planned? What are the strategies to promote livability, well-being, sustainability, innovation and responsive governance?

4 days to respond to these questions in 2 different cities focusing on 2 different problematic:
Case study area 1 - TOD Dukuh Atas, Jakarta, the first integrated transit area of luxurious offices and retails surrounded by on one hand a squatter settlement Kampung and on the other hand a high income historic neighborhood Menteng. Case study area 2 – Jalan Suryakencana, Bogor, a historic corridor of Bogor’s trading activities since the Dutch colonial period which acts also as the backbone of surrounding slum areas.

YPPS AS CONGRESS TEAM MEMBERS
as part of the 55th ISOCARP World Planning Congress

Young Planners, as last year, were offered an opportunity to become a Congress Team Member. This means that – both before and during the congress – they involved in the preparation and running of and reporting on the congress activities. This exceptional opportunity shall allow the Young Planners to get more seriously involved in the entire congress.
This special session is designed to explore the future of planning profession with the involvement of the youngest generation. Since 1991, ISOCARP offers various platforms to engage young planning professionals in activating knowledge for better cities. Among these platforms are Young Planning Professionals’ Workshops, Intensive Training Programmes, Mentoring, Publications and Awards. After a brief introduction, the results and examples of those programmes will be shared with the audience including the results of the ISOCARP Young Planning Professionals’ Workshop in Ningbo, China, organised in collaboration with the UNICEF, the Urban Planning Society of China (UPSC), and undertaken by Ningbo Bureau of Nature Resources and Planning (NBNRP), and the Ningbo Urban Planning & Design Institute (NBPI). This years’ winners of the Student Awards will present their awarded researches. The session will be concluded with a discussion with the audience and participants about how ISOCARP can serve better the new generation, and about the future of planning through the fresh eyes of the young.
